

Earthquake/Bhukampa

Dreadful devastation
Causing the loss of wealth and life for many,
Today the earthquake worked its evil,
Bringing to this place crises of every kind.

No food can be found, no place to stay
So many displaced, so much ruin and destruction
Even sitting to listen, the heart weeps
In humanity today there is immense distress.

What should be done to assist
Those struck by the quake? Let us find the means.
When calamity falls for humankind,
Let us work for a commitment to life.
